Thank you to all the parents who ordered UIFSM. We had a great take up which has secured our funding for the next term.

We had a really positive Governors Meeting last night, looking at the progress children are making and discussing future plans. I have attached a letter about some of the great things happening. We have a vacancy for a parent governor so if you are interested, please come and have a chat about what the role entails. It is a really valuable role as you get to see the direction the school is moving and be involved in the monitoring of school progress.

The children's attitudes to learning are improving all the time. They are taking more and more pride in their work and as a result the books are really showing some great progress. We will have a session in the coming weeks where you can come in and look through your child's books with your child and see what great things they are doing.

It's been an exhausting week, the weeks seem to get busier and busier. Last week I took the plunge and have booked flights to visit Nigeria in February half-term so my weekend is going to be busy shopping and buying supplies to take over for my extended family who live in Nigeria. Any excuse for some shopping!

Have a lovely weekend with your families and I look forward to seeing you in school on Monday.
